SINGULAR FACTS. Gibbon, who in his celebrated history the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, has left an imperishable memo rial of his enmity to the Gospel, re-sided many years in Swigerland, where, with the profits of his works, he pur-chased a considerable caste. This pro-perty has descended to a gentleman, who, out of his rents, expends a large sum annually in the promulgation of that very Gospel which his predecessor insidiously endeavoured to undermine out having had courage openly to assail

To the Lay members of the Convention, I beg leave to return my sincers.

Agreeably to that practice which has always marked the close of our Conventional latters, we surround the Altar of the Redemer to express our thankfulness to himfor that unity which has distinguished our proceedings; for the spiritual blessing we have enjoyed during our association and also to take an affectionate leave of each other.

When we call to view the important concerns in which we have been engaged, and consider the penceful spirit in which those concerns hate been transacted, how heartfelt should be the expression of our gratitude to God! The Theological Seminary and a school of the Prophets, that nurses we be Church, from which we have received so much benefit and advantage, and from which

LIFE DEATH & STERRITY.

- A shadow moving by one's side,
 That would a substance seem,
 That is, yet is not—though descried
 Like skies beneath the stream.
 A tree that's ever in the bloom,
 Whose fruit is never ripe;
 A wish for joys that never come—
 Such are the hopes of Life.
 A dark inevitable night

- A dark, inevitable night, A blank that will remain
- A blank that will remain;
 A waiting for the morning light,
 When waiting is in vain;
 A gulph whose pathway never led
 To shew the depth beneath;
 A thing we know not, ye we dread—
 That dreaded thing is Death.
- The vaulted void of purple sky
- That every where extends, That stretches from the dazzled eye, In space that never ends:

A morning whose uprisen sun
No setting e'er shall see:
A day that comes without a noon—
Such is Eternity.
